

13

dividing the graph into subsets using a power iteration clustering method; and selecting a representative feature from each subset to determine the subgroup of features.

20. The method of claim 18, wherein a number of selected features in each subgroup is less than approximately 3% of a total number of features of the respective original feature representation.

* * * * *

14